alstertaler schrauben & präzisionsteile gmbh

As a Hamburg-based owner-managed company we have been taking care of many satisfied customers since 1978, in Germany, elsewhere in Europe and overseas. We operate a huge warehouse of standard parts and, beyond this, we have developed into a strong partner in terms of turning and milling technology. Using the most modern CNC manufacturing technology for precision parts, we are not only a partner of shipbuilding and of mechanical engineering, but also of the most diverse range of other industries. Thanks to our faithfulness to deadlines, our services, our certified quality management system, as well as our high-performance sales system, we ensure at all times that our customers have a valuable lead on their competitors.

Our products & services at a glance

For decades now, we have been an established feature of the market for precision engineering in Europe. Our product offering covers:

- Turned and milled precision parts
- Special screws, laser parts, punched parts, sheet metal parts and bent parts
- Screws, nuts and accessories, standard parts from stock or specially produced at short notice, from the micro to macro, from DIN 1 to DIN 80705
- All materials from aluminium to zirconium

Absolute faithfulness to deadlines and first-class service are a matter of course for us. Please test us – we look forward to your enquiries!

Individual manufacture of precision parts

At exactly the right time, we supply on a global basis:

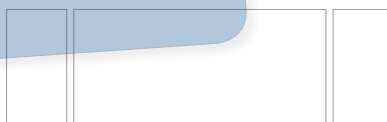

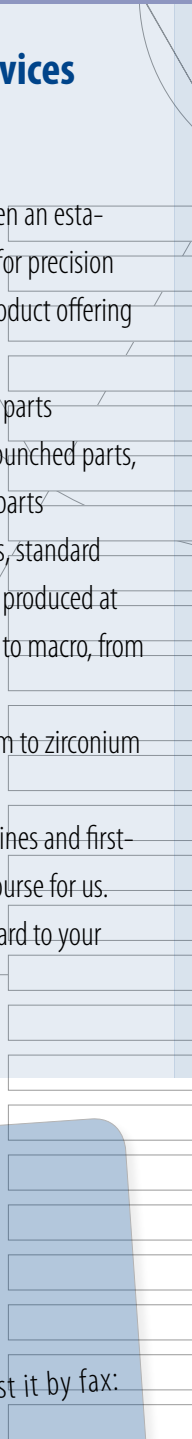

- Special parts based on technical drawings (CNC precision turning and milling parts, automated parts, long-turned parts, mass-production parts)
- Cold-forged parts, warm forming parts
- Cast parts and forgings, including finishing work
- Punched parts, bent parts, welded parts
- Complete assemblies

We supply small, medium and large series, from any material required, with any surface the customer wishes for and also with any appropriate surface treatment requested – naturally, this service is also backed up by test certificates from TÜV, GL, LR, amongst others.

Please also take note of our product catalogues:

- Non-standard connecting elements
- Standard connecting elements
- Dowels, anchors and components

Warehouse stock of screws and standard parts

We save you the trouble of keeping stock. From our daily available stock, we supply from our stock of screws, with over 90,000 items:

- Standard parts from DIN 1 up to DIN 80705
- Standard parts from micro to macro

An expensive storage and logistical arrangement becomes superfluous for you – our customer-oriented stock management, with the “Alstertal Kanban System” makes this possible! You too can benefit from our long years of experience with the broadest range of client industries, from mechanical engineering to aircraft construction, from nuclear power technology to medical technology, from aeronautics and space technology to environmental technology.

TÜV tested to match the most challenging quality requirements

We have long proved to be the specialist for the most exacting demands in terms of quality. Each article is subject to the most strict quality monitoring and is checked with extreme precision, in accordance with the most modern methods.

The introduction of a certified quality management system ensured that the quality of our screws, precision parts and of our work as a whole was enhanced even further and provably documented for our clients. To secure that this continues into the future, the system is regularly checked by an independent company. Because the highest quality is our benchmark – you can count on this.

First-class service worldwide

Precision is our business. This extends both to precisely accurate production and to spot-on punctual delivery.

Whether it is directly onto your production shop floor or to the building site in Istanbul – we supply our precision parts worldwide, from Spitsbergen to Ushuaia and from Alaska to Shanghai – and not just any old time, but precisely at the agreed time. Competence, service and flexibility are our strengths.

Our friendly team and our chief executive Lothar Mewes are very happy to be at your service; please feel free at all times to send your enquiries, however out of the ordinary they may be.
